

Interpretation of Articles of Association

Publishing Date: October 2021

Publisher: Legal Press

Author: Jing YANG, Hylands Law Firm Qingdao Office

A Brief Introduction:

This book belongs to a series of professional books on company law, which are edited under the leadership of the Company Professional Committee of Qingdao Lawyers Association. Lawyer Jing YANG is one of the editors of this book. This book interprets the concepts, features, legal sources, and functions of the articles of association. It also expounds on related legal theories, practices and emphasizes the importance of the articles of association, and regards it together with shareholders and capital as the ‘three pillars’ of the company. This book follows the principle acknowledged by the legal industry that divides items to be recorded in the articles of association into ‘three categories’: absolutely necessary items, relatively necessary items, and arbitrary items. It respectively describes the concepts, characteristics, and importance of each category, as well as boundaries and issues to be noted in each legal practice. The book is divided into five modules: the focus of attention, practice analysis, typical cases, model clauses, and related regulations.

About the Author:

Lawyer Jing YANG is a member of the Communist Party of China and has a Master of Law from the Northwest University of Political Science and Law. Lawyer YANG is a senior partner, deputy director, and deputy secretary of the party branch of Hylands Law Firm Qingdao Office. She is an admirable party member lawyer in the lawyer fraternity of Shandong Province and a reputed female lawyer in Qingdao. Lawyer YANG is a member of the Enterprise Legal Advisory Professional Committee of the Shandong Lawyers Association, Secretary-General of the International Commercial Professional Committee of the Qingdao Lawyers Association, a member of the Industry Development and Internationalization Promotion Committee of the Qingdao Lawyers Association, member of the Legal Service Group of Shandong Province to Respond to International Trade Friction, member of the Lawyers Union of The Belt and Road Initiative, legal training expert of the Legal Education Center for the Master of Law of the Ocean University of China, and an arbitrator of the Weifang Arbitration Commission. She has independent director qualifications, securities practice qualifications, fund practice qualifications, human resources manager qualifications, and corporate trainer qualifications.

Lawyer YANG is often invited by the media in Qingdao to share her opinions on current legal affairs. She is now a perennial legal consultant for many large state-owned enterprises, well-known media in Qingdao, government agencies, and private companies. Her scope of services includes legal consulting, legal training, business negotiation, and civil and criminal litigation. Lawyer YANG specializes in commercial dispute resolution, corporate legal affairs, mergers and acquisitions, non-litigation legal affairs, etc. She has participated in the editing of the book Interpretation on Articles of Association.

In addition, Lawyer YANG has expertise in Australian company-related listing, intellectual property rights, immigration, and foreign investments. She has established partnerships with several law firms and other institutions from Australia.