

Crossing the Mountains and Meeting the Sea

Publishing date: August 2022

A Brief Introduction:

"Everyone is like an isolated island, floating alone on the sea. Whenever the island meets the shore, it thinks it will remain there forever. Surprisingly, the island set sail again and drifted far away."

"You can't reach some people. It's not that others are too tall, but you are too short. How to expand your social connections? You must start by making yourself outstanding."

"A master teaches the trade, but the apprentice's skill is self-acquired. After listening to the instructions of the master, you have to forget yourself, find your position, and complete the tasks diligently. You must not be afraid of hardships and tiredness but concentrate on the work. Then, you can find the progress in yourself."

"The work of a lawyer is like a soldier on the battlefield. We detect land mines and remove them to save our clients. But a lawyer has to protect himself first, otherwise, he will put his life in danger"
